

A Match Made in Heaven is an ITV series following people searching for their soulmate online.

Currently in production, we are looking for people who have a strong sense of themselves as Christians and can articulate this in a way viewers will relate to.

The point being that the people we feature will be modern 21st century people who are very much part of mainstream society, but when it comes to certain aspects of their lives – ie finding a partner – their choices are influenced by their faith or cultural background.

We are looking to film people who are actively searching for partners online, willing to meet prospective partners for the camera and talk to the camera about their experiences...and maybe...find the THE ONE!! We are also keen to hear success stories.

If you are interested please drop an email to kasia.uscinska@itv.com –

The ITV department making this is the Specialist Factual Department – we make The South Bank Show. We are not looking to make something trashy or poke fun at the people we film! We want to make something intelligent that shows voices that are not heard that often.
